

Sales manager Turtle Germany

Since 1994 Turtle has been used by museums across the globe for the safe transportation of valuable artworks. Through years of innovation, Turtle has been developed as the most sustainable climate crate for fine art packaging available on the market today. We are pleased to announce that from now on Turtle will also be available in Germany and we are therefore looking for a sales manager to join our team.

What is the job?

You will be responsible for the introduction of Turtle in Germany, as well as to play a role in the development of the market for superior solutions used to transport valuable pieces of art. You will facilitate the rental of Turtles to German museums, art collectors and transporters and will be required to create a strong network and professional relationships within all related business areas.. You will have the required technical expertise to offer support to partners and clients, and be able to demonstrate our products and their features. You will provide input on further development of Turtle products and be part of the international Turtle network.

Who are you?

You are an entrepreneurial salesperson who has the ability to handle technical content and details. You have a strong network in the art transport market in Germany and are reliable, a self-starter with the stamina to succeed. You are educated to degree level and have at least 5 to 10 years relationship sales experience in the German market. You have an excellent command of the German language, written and spoken, and a good understanding of the culture. English language skills in addition is a preference.

What do we offer?

We offer full time employment in an informal team, where innovation and service to customers are paramount. You will become a member of a strong team whose motto is, "Inspired by art, driven by service". We offer permanent employment (subject to completion of a probation period) and good employment benefits. You will be located in Germany with regular travel to the Netherlands for meetings.
